Final league table

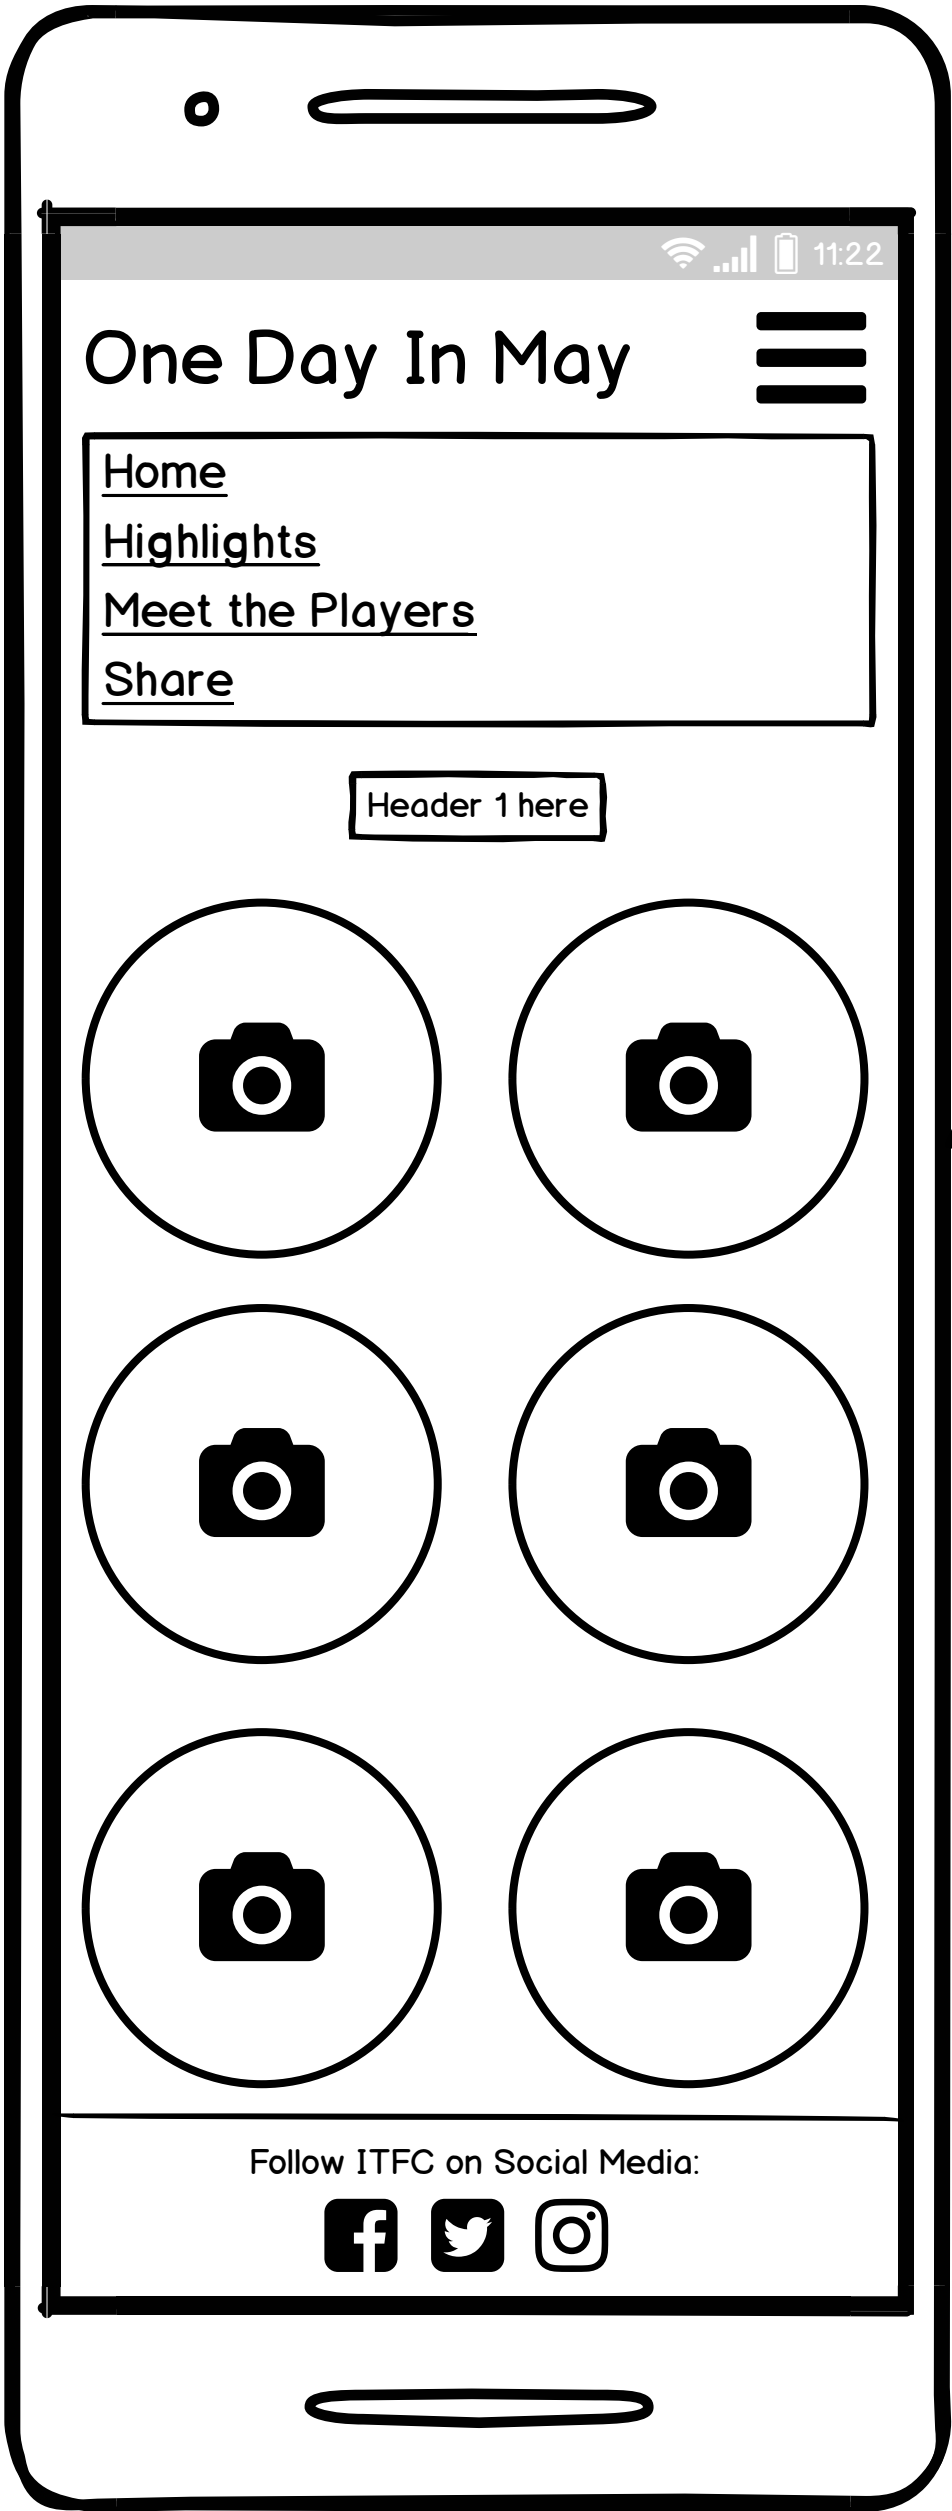

The 3 tabs will have the same layout; an embedded youtube video of the match highlights follow by a brief description of the match.

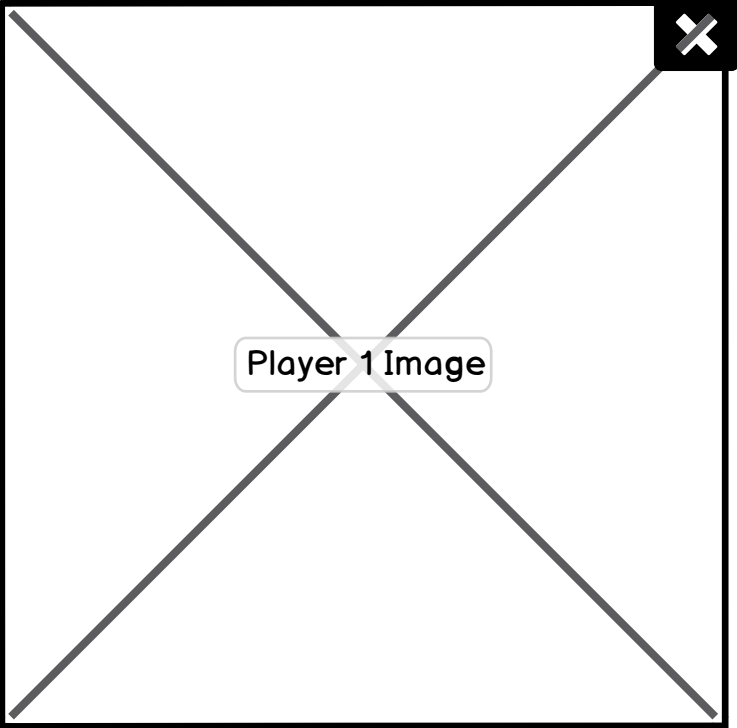

Add some visual effects on loading/hover e.g. zoom in/out a bit. Is 2 images too crowded on small screens? Would one image width be better?

An alternative layout could be to have circular images of the players. Is 2 images too crowded on small screens? Would one image width be better?

► Could the background section have its own page? Is it too much information to have this on the home page?

Could this appear at the top of the Highlights page instead?
